

Move Your Class to a Museum for a Week!

Beyond Classrooms Kingston has introduced more than 1400 students and teachers into Kingston's community and historic sites for a week of immersive and experiential learning.

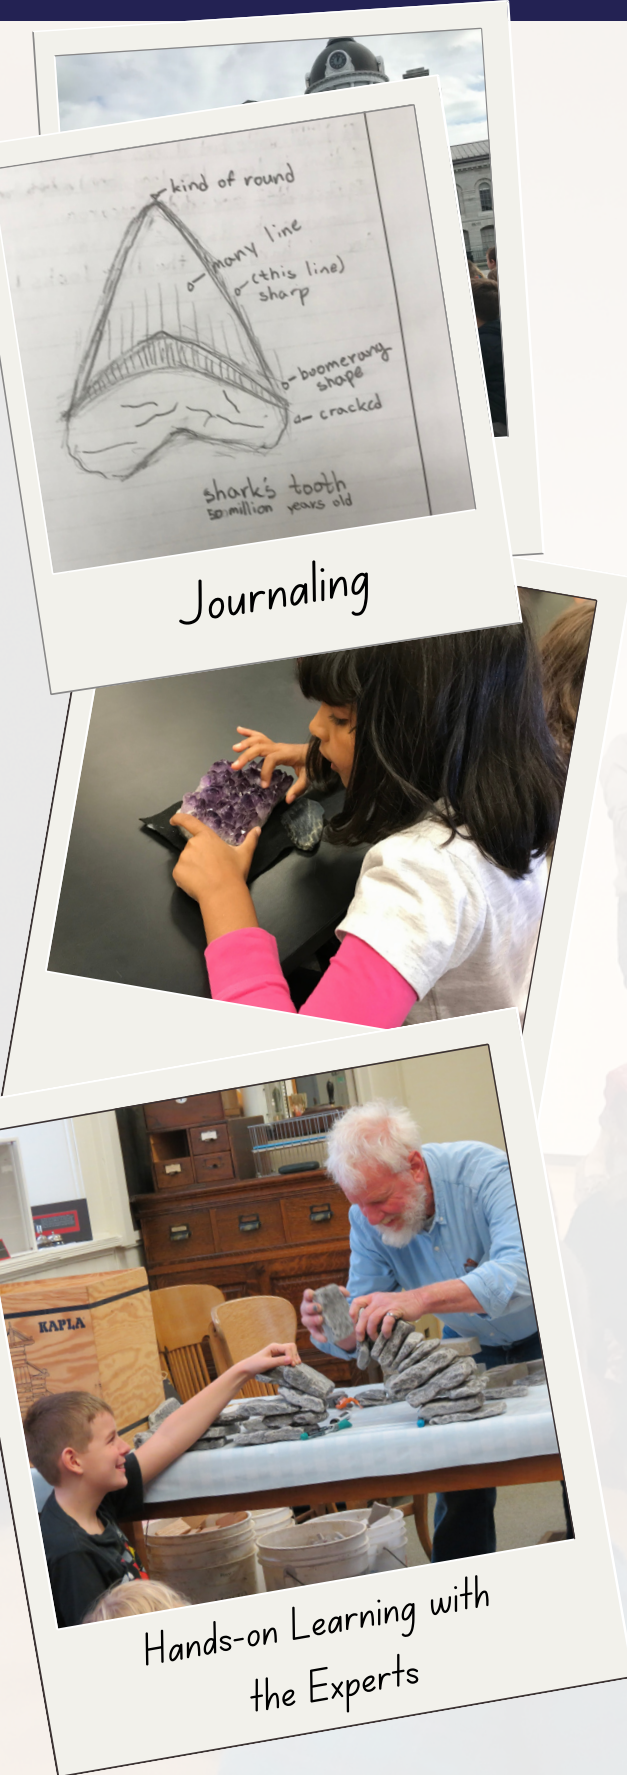

Teachers can build a week uniquely based on the curricular needs of their class and their long-term teaching goals. Students are provided opportunities for slowed-down learning to explore and journal each day. They will be able to meet the on-site experts and participate in hands-on learning. Week-long BCK programs allow students the opportunity to develop their critical thinking, inquiry, literacy, and sketching skills, all while learning about cultural heritage!

Don't miss out on this excellent professional development opportunity for Kingston's teachers.

It was probably the best week of my 25 years of teaching.”
